HAROLD, HIS ANTECEDENTS, FAMILY AND MODE OF LIFE.—David Harold is well known in the sixth ward, he being the son of the late A. G. Harold, who for many years was the principal clerk in the naval store. We believe that he was educated here and at Charlotte Hall, St. Mary's county, Md., and until recently was a clerk in a drug store in the 6th ward. He has been known as a sympathiser with the South, but no one suspected that he would go to any desperate lengths in her behalf.

He had been out of employment for some time past, but managed to keep a horse—a very fast pacing animal—at Pope's stables, on K street south, which he took out of the stable about sundown on Friday night last. As he mounted and rode out, he sung out to those in charge of the stable, 'If any one asks for me, tell them I've gone to New York.' On the same afternoon he told some of his aquaintances that he was going to St. Mary's county.

Within a month or two back he spent much of his time with Booth, and it seemed to his friends that he had suddenly become infatuated with Booth, and no longer than Tuesday last, one of his acquaintances asked him how he had become so thick with Booth, to which he replied, "Oh, Booth is a good fellow."

It will be recollected that a man giving his name as Harld (doubtless Harold hired a roan horse at Naylor's stables on the afternoon of the murder, and that afterwards a man named Atzerard left a horse at the stable, telling the ostler to have it ready at ten o'clock.

Harold is about twenty-two or three years of age, five feet five or six inches in height, dark complexioned, smooth full face, dark brown hair, which is worn short, and dark blue eyes.—Washington Star, April 20.

A HIGH COMPLIMENT.—The Chicago Tribune of April 5th, thus compliments General Grant:

When the details of the last week's work shall be made known we doubt not the country will be astonished at the masterly tactics by which the prize of the war has been wrested from Lee's hands, and himself driven a fugitive out of Virginia. Lieut. General Grant has won victories enough to make half a dozen first class military reputations. He has borne himself through all with a modest equanimity which must excite the admiration of all who shall read the history of the great struggle. He has earned the gratitude of all generations of the American people.

THE results of the court martial which tried the alleged rebel conspirators charged with the henious design of destroying Chicago by fire on the day of the Presidential election last fall, were made public by Gen. Hooker yesterday, so far as relates to five of them. Charles Walsh and R. T. Semmes were found guilty, and sentenced to hard labor in the penitentiary, the former for five years and the latter for three. Buckner, Morris and Vincent Marmaduke have been acquitted, and will be discharged on taking the oath of allegiance. The decisions in the case of the two others accused—Greenfell and Daniels—have not been promulgated.—Herald, 25th.

A movement has been started in California for a subscription to purchase a homestead for the family of John Brown, who are residing at Red Bluff.

FRIDAY MORNING, MAY 26, 1865.

In Tears.

When Jeff Davis and party, after capture, met the proclamation of the President offering a reward for the arrest of him who more than the any other, more than the assassin himself was guilty of the "deep damnation of the taking off" of Mr. Lincoln, we see them all melting into tears—at what? Can it be that this man, who has sanctioned the murder of negro prisoners of war and the starvation of those of whiter skin; he who sat coldly by when they were suffering all the tortures of the damned in Libby and on Belle Isle under his very nose; he who aimed the bullet from Richmond that reached its mark with such fatal effect in Washington, can it be that this man, so totally without mercy for others, can shed tears for his own misfortunes and melt into bitter lamentations at the prospect of being overtaken by the retribution he has so long defied? Verily, we thought him composed of sterner stuff.

Ah, how different it is when others suffer and die, to what the ordeal seems when presented to ourselves. Then the cup pressed to other lips and they compelled to quaff the agonizing drops of misery and death, is tasted in all its bitterness and the soul shrinks in horror from the reality of guilt—the certainty of punishment.

Jeff Davis surrounded by armies that protected him from the hands of Justice, Jeff Davis, who had but to order and be obeyed, and Jeff Davis the fugitive from retribution with a price upon his head are two very different individuals even in the estimation of him who represents them both. It is fallen ambition, unsuccessful crime—crime of the blackest dye—overtaken by the swift pursuing fates and called upon to answer for the deeds that have been done, but alas cannot be recalled. Any criminal not capable of feelings that restrain other men from sanguinary purposes, we suppose, would tremble in the presence of the scaffold, for there he sees, too late, that evil impulses do not possess impunity, and those who do violence aronse a spirit which will be appeased with nothing less than bloody retribution. Let the greatest criminal of all the ages, even Jeff. Davis, meet now the reward that outraged humanity has in store for him—he has leagued with outrage, he has been overtaken, he weeps—for his crimes?—oh, no—but because he has now to suffer like any ordinary felon. Ah! what a craven creature was this that men have worshipped—how fallen. Give his vile spirit to the fiends and his foul carrion to the earth which he has fattened with the tears of women and the blood of noble men.

BY PACIFIC TELEGRAPH.

[SPECIAL TO THE DAILY VEDETTE.]

New York, May 23d.

The Herald's Fort Monroe correspondent says, the immediate place of confinement of Jeff. Davis will be in Casemates, which are rocks ribbed and arched. The mansions within the fort each constituting a fort within itself. On the arches of these Casemates, are mounted fifteen inch Rodman guns and the only connections from the fort with the main land, are by a sally port and a small postern in one of the bastions on the west side, being spanned at each of these points by a draw bridge, which can be raised at pleasure, thus cutting off all communication.

New York, May 23d.

April 14th, Lat. 10 north and Long. 30 west, Ship George Griswold from New York, for San Francisco. Ship Robin Hood sailed yesterday from Boston, for San Francisco.

The Herald's Mobile correspondent says: The rebel fleet in Tombigbee river, consisting of twelve vessels, surrendered to commander Simpson, fleet Captain of the West Gulf sqadron. Two Commodores and 150 other officers of the rebel navy surrendered with their vessels and were paroled.

A large number of the citizens of Dallas county assembled at Selma and passed a resolution requesting the Governor of Alabama to call the Legislature together, with the view to the restoration of the State to its former position in the Union. Judge Byrd, an influential citizen, made a short address, in which he said the war had decided two questions—secession and slavery—and both adversely. He counseled conciliation and moderation, and said it depended on the magnanimity of the victors whether conciliation and harmony would be permanent and substantial, and these are the sentiments of the people generally.

The Herald's Macon correspondent says: The people of the interior of Ga., are rapidly settling themselves to a condition of peace. Forage and provisions are being brought freely into the places occupied by Union troops. The citizens are demanding a convention and re-construction.

The Tribune's special has the following: There will be twenty-one miles of soldiery sixty abreast in the review on Tuesday.

It has transpired that the forthcoming Presidential proclamation will not permit loyal negroes to vote.

It is said that the superior officers of Sherman's army are urging the removal of Secretary Stanton, and a demonstration of displeasure is looked for from the rank and file when they pass the official stand in front of the White House. This, it is said, would have occurred to Halleck, in Richmond, if Sherman had not warned that officer not to show himself to his soldiery.

Sherman's official report will soon be published. It was written after Stanton's manifesto and consequently is quite racy.

The returning rebels are becoming quite arrogant in Virginia, and in the administration of Governor Pierpont trouble is expected from them.

A special to the Times, from Washington the 22d, says: There is no doubt but that Jeff Davis will be tried in Washington for treason.

A special to the World says, the counsel for the defense on the conspiracy trial have summoned witnesses from every part of the country and will number 250. The following letter was sent by Clay to Gen. Wilson, surrendering himself at Lagrange, Ga., May 10th:

"General, I have just seen the proclamation from the President of the U. States, offering a reward of $100,000 for my arrest, on the charge of having with others therein named, incited and concocted the murder of the late President. Conscious of my innocence and unwilling even to seem to fly from justice and confident of my entire vindication from so foul an imputation, upon a full, fair and impartial trial, which I expect to receive, I shall go as soon as practicable to Macon and deliver myself up to your custody," (Signed)

C. C. CLAY.

Washington, May 23d.

As early as 7 o'clock, this a. m., the people assembled in Pensylvania avenue to witness the grand review The day was beautiful and everything in the most perfect order for the march of our war worn troops. The avenue at an early hour was washed by the fire department, so as to have it clean. In front of the President's house, an immense stand is erected on south street, for the gallant officers, Grant and Sherman, who are to review the troops. Another stand on the north side, for the members of Congress and other stands are also on the square for the wounded soldiers. The houses in the vicinity of the President's house, are adorned with flags and evergreens and the route of march is packed by people, all eager to give the heroes of the war a hearty welcome.

The columns commenced to move at nine o'clock, the first being headed by Gen. Meade, followed by his staff; he was cheered along the route and the ladies waving their handkerchiefs. At the capitol, children are assembled who distribute boquets and loose flowers to the gallant men as they pass. The soiled and tattered flags of the soldiers are proudly borne by them, amid the cheers of the lookers on.

The cavalry is the first in order to pass in review, under Gen. Merritt. Gen. Custar bears a beautiful wreath on his arm, presented to him at the capitol. In the vicinity of the stand, at the President's house, a dense crowd is congregated. The avenue is perfectly clear of all vehicles and the march uninterrupted. Thousands of persons, including many from other cities, who have specially come to see the pageant, line the sidewalk from the capitol to the executive mansion, a distance of a mile and a half. The windows and balconies, and all eligible positions, including the house tops, are occupied by deeply interested spectators; all public business is suspended and there was a general holiday. The capitol bore the motto, "The only national debt we can never pay is the debt we owe to our victorious Union soldiers." At the south of the capitol, at least 20,000 school girls are assembled, neatly dressed; there was much pleasant excitement among them, in pressing forward to present flowers to the soldiers. These children also sung patriotic songs to the troops as they moved along. Pennsylvania Avenue presented a grand appearance. All the arms of the service were represented in full force, with an occasional insertion of a body of Zouaves, which served to relieve the sameness and gave a fine effect. Looking up the avenue, there was one continuous moving line, as far as the eye could reach, of national, state, division, brigade, regiment and other flags; some wore new stars of gold, glistening in the sun, and these contrasted strongly with the flags borne in the procession, tattered in battle or worn to shreds, while others were thickly covered with names and dates of the battle fields where victories were won by these proud veterans.

Flags and rifles were decorated with flowers, and many boquets hung from the muskets of these troops, who did not, as to dress, present a war-worn appearance. All were well and cleanly clad, and their fine marching elicited praise from every tongue.

On the south side of the avenue and fronting the Executive Mansion, the stand was placed and hung and handsomely festooned with National flags. At various points were the inscriptions. "Atlanta." "Wilderness," "Stone River," "South Mountain." "Shiloh," "Vicksburg," "Savannah," "Richmond," "Petersburg," "Coal Harbor." This latter stand was in part occupied by President Johnson and members of his Cabinet, Gens. Grant and Sherman and other distinguished army officers. On the left were members of Diplomatic corps and their families. Two hundred tickets having been issued to this class of spectators.

On a stand provided for the purpose, were Geo. Bancroft and the following Governors: Crapo, Buckingham, Fenton, Andrews, Fairchilds, Bradford, Curtin and Smith; and Senators Wade, Wilson, Sherman, Johnson, Chandler, Harris, Hendrickson, Dixon, Foster, Morgan, Conness, and Lane, of Kansas, and Representatives Schenck, Hooper, Marston, Lynch, Hoge, Porter, Kelly, Jenks, Loan and ex Speaker Grow.

There were at least thirty naval officers bearing the highest rank and as many army officers, including, Gen's Hancock, Wilcox, Cadwalder, Hitchcock, Newton and Rawlin's, and as the corps and divisions passed in review of the President and Lieut. Gen. Grant, their commanders severally left the columns and took seats on the platform. Judges of courts, Chiefs of Government, Bureaus and other public officers, were similarly accomodated. The croud in that part of the city was extremely dense, it being the main point of attraction and receiving place, where was assembled the highest dignitaries.

Gen. Custar rode a powerful horse, restive and at times ungovernable and when near the Treasury Department, the animal madly dashed forward to the head of the line; the Gen. vainly attempted to check his course, at the same time endeavoring to retain his right. Flowers had been previously placed on him, and in the flight the Gen. lost his hat, but finally conquered his horse and reformed his column. Passing the President's stand, he made a low bow and was applauded by the multitude. The troops occupied six hours in review; from 9 A. M., until 3 P. M.

The Cadence step was taken from the Capitol, to 17th. St; form which point, the various organizations proceeded on the march to their separate quarters. The review is spoken of as the greatest that has ever taken place on this continent. It was a grand affair, suggestive of the trials and victories of the army of the Potomac.

New York, May 23d.

The gunboat Rhode Island from Pensacola and Mobile Point the 16th arrived at St. Marks and the Tallahassee in Florida surrendered to our forces on the 9th and the steamer Spray to Lieut Gibson of Mahaska on the 11th.

New York, May 23d.

The Richmond Whig announces the arrival of two divisions of the sixth army corps of General Wright's, commanded by General's Getty and Ricketts, respectively in Manchester. General Wheaton's division of the same corps remain behind, being distributed at different points between Richmond and Danville. First brigade is stationed at the latter place.

AN APPROPRIATE RELIC OF TREASON.—Gen. Gordon brought back as a relic from Jeff. Davis' house an ornament in the shape of an eagle, the neck of which is firmly held in the capacious mouth of an alligator. From the beak of the eagle is suspended a chain of five links, emblematic of the eagle fettering the South. An American shield is in the paws of the alligator, as having been wrested from the spirited bird of freedom. The height of the whole is ten inches, and the spread of the eagle's wings measures fourteen inches The emblem of Southern treason illustrated was presented to Jeff by a member of the North Carolina Legislature, who of late has been loud in preaching submission sentiments, and was ready to give up the Confederacy.

This evening's boat carries this precious relic to Boston as a present from General Gordon to Governor John A. Andrew, Executive of the Bay State, by whom it will doubtless, be highly appreciated.—N. Y. Herald.

NOT YET TAKEN.—A persistent rebel, hailing from som dark corner in Dixie where school-houses are scarce, remarked to a Union friend a day or two since, that "he didn't believe any of the d——d abolition lies about the taking of Richmond. Jeff Davis said it couldn't be took, and it couldn't! no-sir-ee." This fellow thinks that Columbus landed in the State of "Arkansas," and the Tower of Babel was built at Missouri Bend on the Sacramento.

A YOUNG lady was recently cured of palpitation of the heart, by a young doctor, in the most natural way imaginable. He held one of her hands in his, put one arm around her waist, and whispered something in her ear.

HEBER'S WIVES.—Fitz Hugh Ludlow gives the most entertaining and lively account of experience "Among the Mormons" that we have yet read. His account of the social features of polygamy is charmingly droll; take for instance his report of a conversation with Heber Kimball:

"One day in the Opera House at Salt Lake, when the carpenters were laying the floor for the Fourth of July Eve Ball, Heber and I got to talking of the pot pourri of nationalities assembled in Utah, Heber waxed unctuously benevolent, and expressed his affection for each succeeding race as fast as mentioned.

"I love the Danes dearly! I've got a Danish wife." Then turning to a rough looking carpenter hammering near him: "You know Christiny—eh, Brother Spudge?

"Oh, yes! know her very well!"

"A moment after: "The Irish are a dear people. My Irish wife is among the best I've got.

"Again: 'I love the Germans! Got a Dutch wife, too! Know Katrine, Brother Spudge? Remember she couldn't scarcely talk a word o' English when she come—eh, Brother Spudge?"

"Brother Spudge remembered, and Brother Heber continued to trot out the members of his marital stud for discussion of their points with his more humble fellow polygamist of the hammer; but when I happened to touch upon the earliest Mrs. Heber, whom I naturally thought he would by this time regard as a forgoten fossil in the Lower Silurian strata of his connubial life, and refered to the interview I had enjoyed with her on the afternoon before entering the city, his whole manner changed to a proper husbandly dignity, without seeking corroboration from the carpenter, he replied, gravely:

"Yes! that is my first wife and the best woman God ever made!"
—Denver Gazette.

IN a recent number of Charivari, John Bull is represented in an attitude of abject terror, leaning against a post inscribed "Canada," and staring with affright at a burly Yankee malefactor, who is throttling a man on the ground. "When he is done with him, he'll come and rob me!" is the despairing cry of the helpless, fat and timid victim.

Local Matters.

BURGLARY —On Wednesday night last, between the hours of ten and eleven o'clock, the building occupied by the Good Templars at this post, was entered by some person or persons, by a side window and the box containing the charter of Garrison Lodge No. 65 I. O. G. T., was broken with a rasp or file and the Melodeon, which the Lodge recently purchased at a cost of $200, nearly if not completely ruined. Private Newton of company A, 3d Inf. Bat. C. V. and his wife occupy one room in the building, as a sleeping apartment. Mrs. Newton, was the first who heard the noise; she immediately awoke her husband, saying, that she distinctly heard some one in the Lodge room. Newton paid no attention at first, but on his wife speaking the second time, he arose, dressed himself and walked around the building, where he found one of the windows raised and distinctly heard some one moving within. He left the building and went to 'A' company's quarters, and arroused private Maloney, when they both returned to the building.

The person was still within, Maloney called the guard and Newton moved to the opposite side of the building thinking that Maloney would remain at the window: but it seems that Maloney passed beyond the building, in order to make himself heard by the guard, when the burglar made his escape.

A reward of $50 is offered by the Lodge for the apprehension of the party or parties, and an additional reward of $20 is offered by the W. C. T., of the Lodge. It is to be hoped that the scoundrel or scoundrels may be caught and punished as they deserve.

GURNEY & Co., Boot and Shoe Dealers, S. L. City, have on hand the largest, best and cheapest stock of Boots and Shoes, both ladies and gents, ever imported to this market. Their show rooms are open to all, and it is always a pleasure to them to exhibit their goods. Call on them for your Boots or Shoes.

THE Camp Douglas Brass Band, under the leadership of John Heidlinger, is now pronounced as the best band on the Pacific slope.

Mrs. Gen. Connor and J. H. Nevitt, Esq., sutler, were honored with a serenade on Wednesday night, prior to their departure for Denver. Mrs. Connor desires us to express her personal gratitude for the serenade.

THE FORT SUMPTER FLAG RAISING.—The following is the order relative to restoring the Union flag to Fort Sumter, and the anniversary of the evacuation of the same by Major Anderson:

WAR DEP'T, ADJ'T GEN'S. OFFICE, Washington, March 27, 1865. General Orders. No. 50.]

Ordered—First. That at the hour of noon on the 14th day of April, 1865, Brevet Major General Anderson will raise and plant upon the ruins of Fort Sumter, in Charleston harbor, the same United States flag that floated over the battlements of that fort during the rebel assault, and which was lowered and saluted by him and the small force of his command when the works were evacuated on the 14th day of April, 1861.

Second, That, the flag, when raised, be saluted by one hundred guns from Fort Sumter, and by a national salute from every fort and rebel battery that fired upon Fort Sumter.

Third, That suitable ceremonies be had upon the occasion under the direction of Major General William T. Sherman, whose military operations compelled the rebels to evacuate Charleston, or, in his absence, under the charge of Major General Q. A. Gillmore, commanding the department. Among the ceremonies will be the delivery of a public address by the Rev. Henry Ward Beecher.

Fourth, That the naval forces at Charleston, and their commander on that station, be invited to participate in the ceremonies of the occasion.

By order of the President of the United States.

EDWIN M. STANTON, Sec'y of War.
A. D. Townsend, Ass't Adj't Gen.

GEN. GRANT, on Monday, telegraphed to the War Department: "We are in possession of Richmond. A part of it is on fire; shall it burn?" Secretary Stanton read the dispatch to an immense crowd in front of the war office and asked the question, "What answer shall I return to General Grant?" The multitude impulsively responded, "Let it burn?" But the more thoughtful cried out, "No, no, don't destroy it; we can make good use of it." The noes had it, and Richmond did not illuminate the victory.—St. Louis Democrat, April 13th.

AN HONEST CONFESSION.—The Folsom Telegraph, of May 13th, relates the following: A few days since, Justice Quigley sentenced a Chinaman to the county jail for thirty days for stealing wood. He asked John if he had ever stolen anything before; at which John commenced laughing immoderately and answered "Yes; me stealee in Treka, Marysville, Auburn, all over California; stealee hundreds of chickens around Folsom; stealee one dozen night before last; stealee everything; heap stealee—welly good China thief. Melican man no catchee before. Good-bye, Judge."

THE Maine papers record the marriage in Sweden, in that state, of a lad, aged sixteen years, to a widow lady, of Lovell, aged thirty-eight. She is the owner of a farm, and has "taken the boy home."

THE lack of money is a weight upon the bosom. The possession of it a heaviness on the chest.
